Book Review

Reviewed by Jessica Barbosa for Readers' Favorite

Joey Cabot was a seasoned author of historical novels, and there was one story she had been dying to write: Lola Grayson's life story. Lola Grayson wanted to have it all: fame, fortune, and love. And for a time, she did have it all, until her unexpected death that shocked the world. It was both tragic and unexpected for someone so young and at the peak of their career. Joey had always been drawn to the charismatic young woman and wanted to know about her, who she really was, and what lay at the heart of her character. When an opportunity strikes in the form of Lola Grayson and Robert Taggart's former home in Los Angeles, Joey takes it, eager to get to know more of "The Siren" behind the scenes. Little does she know just how big her story will be, especially after uncovering several of Lola's secrets that could change everything. Read The Girl Made of Stars by K.E. Le Veque to find out more.

The Girl Made of Stars by K.E. Le Veque was a captivating story that led me through an immersive and thought-provoking mystery. The narrative and characters were so descriptive, and the plot was full of twists that kept me guessing the more I read. The writing was lyrical and gripping; it pulled me deeper into the story with every chapter I finished. Following Joey Cabot as she discovered more and more of Lola Grayson's past made me lose track of time. Every new secret Joey uncovered had me on the edge of my seat and excited for more. What truly made this novel stand out was its ability to evoke deep emotions in me: tears, laughter, and awe. The biggest twist of the plot actually had me screaming in shock. The Girl Made of Stars is a unique read that not only entertained me to the very end but also left a lasting impression. Great work!
