A beautiful story, Gifts of the Crysnix by Lisa G. Shore reiterates the magic and power of fairies and how we all can ask fairies to help us achieve what we want in our lives. Marsuveus belongs to a parallel universe, the Crystal Kingdom which is hidden from humankind, and which is enchanting and breath-taking. They refer to themselves as Crysnix and they live in a perfect society where each Crysnix has a skill and works towards the betterment of the society. Many a time, the inner voice that guides humans is a Crysnix that comes to help them in a human form.

Elixir is tall and handsome and has had the honor of serving the Kings of the Crystal Kingdom. But he has a secret which he has kept hidden from the world. Like the Crysnix, the Ogres live in the forest and, though they live in another dimension, their vibration is slower and they are not as sophisticated as the Crysnix. But more than the Ogres, it is the Dark Prince Onyx who is the actual threat and who is also a manifestation of evil. As the story progresses along with the positive side of the Crysnix and the negativity of the Dark Prince Onyx, readers are taught some wonderful lessons that will help them look at life with a positive frame of mind and also make them understand the power of forgiveness, determination, and empowerment.

All the characters in the story are well portrayed and leave a lasting impression on the minds of readers. The story has many layers to it, making it a compelling read. It's not only a story of transformation; it's also a story of hope. The Crystal Kingdom, Crysnix, and Castle Forest give a magical vibe to the plot and also a softness and enchantment that come with fairies. There are many characters in the story that will inspire readers with their power, strength, and character. For all those who are fascinated by fairies, wizards, shamans, and enchanting creatures, this story will definitely appeal. It's for all those readers who love the special magic that comes with stories revolving around fairies and magical creatures.

Author Biography

Studies in Advertising Art at Red River College led Lisa into the fields of television and design. Working behind and in front of the cameras as a writer/producer and host of two television shows, the creative challenges of copywriting took a personal turn and she began to write for her young children. Inspired by the forest around her family island home, nature set the scene for the magic that came to life on the page.

As a single mother, Lisa focused on the positive as she navigated the bumps of life and brought up her children with loving and strong ideals. Themes of self-reliance, tolerance and caring for ourselves, and the planet were prevalent in her home and are now the key messages through her books.

Lisa publishes her books to share with kids of all sizes who dream big.
